Dear Parents,

This booklet has been made as a template for your own child's brag book. Children love to look and talk about themselves and this little book will help them to do that. Please fill in the sections or modify as needed, then cut on the black lines and place the pages into a small photo album. These pages are the correct size for the small plastic photo albums which can be purchased at many cheap stores for only a couple of dollars.

To start with, your child can look at the pictures with you while you model the words for them (you tell them what it is repeatedly). Keep your model simple to start with. Let your child take their special book with them when they go out so they can share the book with others and get even more practice. As they get to know their book better they may start to try to talk about the pictures themselves. Show them you are interested in listening to them and are excited at their efforts, and then they will try it over and over again.

All the best, the Talking Matters Team.
